MIDDLE THAMES: PORT MEADOW

20th Century did it become Parsons Pleasure before closing in 1991. It was near where the river splits: Dames Delight, a few yards downstream, was nearer to the bend by the rollers. There is no plaque to mark either spot, but rather fittingly all that remains of the Dames club today is a large tomb-like slab of concrete which must have been the base of the Dames spring board. "Thousands of women must have bounced off that spring board." I thought. Today, sadly its only use is as a rather uncomfortable park seat. Dames' Delight opened in 1934 and closed in 1970 after floods. Parsons Pleasure is rather overgrown with trees, but the punts keep a channel through. The bend in the river between Dames Delight and the punt rollers is now the place to swim. Quite a big pool, deep, and says Chris, heavily used, but mainly by teenagers. Whereas it is usually boats that present a hazard to swimmers, here it now appears to be the other way round. I witnessed a crowd of young swimmers encircle and then board a slowly turning punt. "A new form of piracy" I thought.

St Clements* on the eastern side of Oxford. Near the junction of Marston Road & Headington Road. Enter through the church car park and continue to the little meadow beyond. SP526064, ☒ OX3 0EE.

This is a disused concrete sided pool in a backwater of the Cherwell; rather silted up, and with some water lilies growing in it. You can still swim here as Chris has recently; about 5ft deep, perhaps more he says. Concrete steps, no punts and no sun in the afternoon. A sad neglected place, better to go to Dames Delight.

*Don't confuse this with St Clements Car Park, St Clements Toilets etc. Its the church you want, which is ¼ mile further out of town.

Records from 1827 mention a swimming bath at St Clements.

PORT MEADOW

Port Meadow is a huge water meadow immediately to the west of the Oxford. It lies between the Oxford Canal (which borders the city) & the Thames. You have a choice of 5 swimming locations.

● Wolvercote Bridge ★★★♿☒ About 2 miles north west of Oxford city centre at the NW tip of Port Meadow. Access from the A40/A44 roundabout at the northern end of Woodstock Road. Through the village and into the council car park on the left before the bridge. ☒ OX2 8PU, N51.78126° W1.29601°, SP486094.

Wolvercote Bridge

Today, people swim in the pool immediately downstream of the bridge. This is mostly shallow, but you can swim in parts of it. Downstream of this pool you will notice that the bank has been edged with bags of cement, and that an area of grass has been fenced off. This is the old council swimming area. Another remnant of it is the concrete foundations of the changing rooms. As for swimming there: It is rather too shallow & its not as good as by the bridge so why bother, besides you'd be disturbing a whole row of fishermen.

Wolvercote 1952: David & Chris sit on the rope dividing the shallow from the deep section.

To the south is the huge expanse of . . .

● Port Meadow ★★★♿☒ The east (left) bank. Access from the city via Worcester St, Walton St & then north past the back of Radcliffe Infirmary. Left at The Victoria and into Walton Well Rd, ☒ OX2 6GE, 200 yards & fork left over bridge & park. No tall vehicles. Alternatively walk down from Wolvercote Bridge as ● or walk downstream from Binsey & cross Rainbow Bridge.

Swimming is in the Thames along the western edge of the Meadow. Entry is shallower than on the far (Binsey) shore and more susceptible to weed growth (later in the year), but it is a shorter walk from Oxford. There is no shade; the sun has you at its mercy. The wild-looking horses & cattle, and the huge flocks of geese that roam freely lend it a wild air, in great contrast to the nearby city. At times it floods, and is ☉ Confluence ★ ☺ ☹ ☹ in the middle of the Beddgelert*, past the toilets. ☒ LL55 4YA, 53.01156° W4.10112°, SH591481. Not quite as bad as it sounds, but handy for shopping. A little swirly pool in the park.

*An extraordinary name; it means Gelert's Grave. Gelert being the loyal dog that Prince Llewelyn slew in error 1700 years ago. The town's marketing guys here were obviously well ahead of the game in naming the place after him and keeping his grave intact. They have now laid a headstone on his grave and honoured him with a bronze canine statue in a little sanctuary nearby. Thousands of dogs and dog owners and others come to visit it.

Llyn Dinas ★ ★ ☹ ☹ 2 miles NE of Beddgelert. Locals swim in the evening from the footpath at the south end. Best access is from the road side of the river, as entry on the far side is shallow and slippery. N53.02279° W4.07022°, SH612492, (☒ LL55 4NH is north of the lake). Relatively warm water.

The LLAN & MERCH

About 3 miles north-east of Beddgelert, from the A498 between Llyn Gwynant and Llyn Dinas take the turning for the National Trust campsite at Hafod-y-Llan. ☒ LL55 4NQ. Park and walk through the campsite and cross the river by the footbridge above the confluence. These two valleys are on the tree-less south facing slopes of Snowdon. Hence the rivers catch the sun.

to a wonderful series of crystal clear pools with large rounded blue pebbles. SH6251. The most popular pools are the early ones by the clapper bridge, but there are many more besides. Splendid scenes. The Watkin Path runs nearby, but this is a longer route.

☉ Glyn Merch (Women's Glen) ☺ ☺ ☺ ☹ ☹ ☹ From the Cwm Llan pools take the path up the hill and away from the pools and Watkins Path. Through 2 gates and the path turns left. After 100 yards strike out to the right over the brow of the hill and then down to the valley beyond. A flat, but marshy valley. leads to pools above and below. Grid: SH 6352, N53°03.104' W4°

14. NORTHUMBRIA & THE NORTH YORK MOORS

This area covers anywhere north of the Humber. There are some superb swims here, but remember that the rivers can rise very quickly and so become quite unsuitable for swimming in. Try to pick a dry spell, and avoid the August rains in the Pennines.

BORDERS: HIGH BRIDGE OF KEN

The Lower Pool at High Bridge of Ken: A jump and long swims.

There is a way down to the shaded pools below. Not very deep, the kind of place where kids might spend hours, while their parents get very bored as there is little room for them to sit comfortably. Better to go to . . .

*Named after Mary Queen of Scots who crossed it on her way to England & her eventual execution.

📍Black Pool★ Minnigaff, From Queen Mary's Bridge follow the river upstream (with the river on your right) on the farm track until, after about 400 yards, it veers slightly to the left and away from the river. At this point stick with the river by walking in the grass between the new barbed wire fence and the river for 50 yards. N54.97566° W4.47556°, NX 416673,

This is a lovely little pool if a bit shaded; rocky sides and possibly some jumps. Walk-in entry. Before the fence was put up it was an excellent picnic site as well, but the amount of litter left behind has lead the English laird to erect the fence and thus reduce the value of this amenity. However it is still well worth a visit even if you have to leave your picnic hamper behind and make do with sandwiches.

Dean Castle Country Park☺☺, Kilmarnock. Park in Dean Lane, ☒KA3 1DS, to the north of town and follow the stream up to the bridge to find the natural rock weir: N55.61817° W4.49163°, NS431388.

This is mainly used as a "Hanging out" spot. The young do jump in and swim, but the stream is small and the park busy at this point.

High Bridge of Ken

📍College Linn★★★★☺☺ is on the B7000 by the High Bridge of Ken is a mile east of Knowehead, midway between Ayr and Castle Douglas. (☒ DG7 3UE is nearby off B729) Look for a large "No Fishing" sign by a high stone bridge. This spans a gorge. Access to the lower end of the gorge is by the field gate opposite Bridgemark Farm. N55.18644° W4.16961°, NX 619902. Rock jumps and a good gorge swim. Picnics but cows may be in the field.

📍The Lower Pool★★★ is just the other side of this small field. Jumps and long swims, very long swims in fact as this is a part of Kendoon Loch.

📍Blackwater Bridge

☺☺☺☺☺☺ Continue south along the B7000 and ¾mile beyond ☒DG7 3UD park near Blackwater Bridge. Excellent paddling with a choice of pools. N55.17049° W4.17383°, NX616883 For swimming. . .

ARGYLL & TAY: KILLIN BEACH & SCOUT POOL

Killin Beach at the west end of Loch Tay: dry weather reveals the sand bar.

Falls of Falloch/Rob Roy Falls, ★★❄️ Glen Falloch are between Crianlarich & Inverarnan, about 2 miles north of The Drovers Inn, ☒G83 7DZ. Picnic site with a footpath to the Falls. N 5 6 . 3 5 0 1 1 ° , W 4 . 6 9 6 2 5 ° , N N 3 3 8 2 0 8 . Awesome jump, good cold swimming, but little lying about or picnic space and a steady stream of sightseers.

Rob Roy at one time lived nearby but maybe he wasn't a regular swimmer, although he is reputed on one occasion to have escaped his captors by swimming downstream in a river.

8TA and walk down the old railway track signed Old Railway L. Tay 1 mile. Turn right after the old railway bridge and follow the River Lochay down to the loch. W56.47489° W4.30282°, NN582337

The favoured swim is to walk to the end of the sand bar (whether covered or not) and swim back up the river, which usually has very little current and is at the same level as the Loch. The sand bar is also favoured for sun bathing.

📍Scout Pool★★★★ Take the A827 north out of Killin, turning left at the Moirlanich Long House sign after the campsite. Drive past the sub station, the long house, the power station and the cul-de-sac sign to find a small grassy area on the left. N56.48827° W4.37655°, NN539352, (☒FK21 8UA is beyond). A very spectacular swim with easy access and picnic space.

Falls of Falloch: a large deep pool. high jump but no picnics.

Tadpole "Island": a perfect picnic site with a corner swim.

📍Tadpole Island★★ is 150 yards further on. N56.48963 W4.37655; NN537353. Some prefer this picnic site atop a peninsular. The swim below consists of swimming along a bendy corner.

📍Loch Earn, North Side ★★📍 There are several sites along the A85, N56.39089° W4.20085°.

tion north in Corte. 42.325479, 9.150219. A small pool.

NORTH

Pont Génois on the Asco★★★★☼ This tributary of the Golo is in the north between l'Il-Rousse and Corte. Take the D147 from Ponte Lecca. Atlas page 187 D2. N42.44743° E9.03175° You have to drive through the village of Asco and then turn left.

Jumps from above the bridge and walk-in access below. A reasonable length of swim in wild country.

Pont Mulindina★★★★☼ Half way along the Asco road and just down from the only bridge is a large car park. N42.46818° E9.10786° A little scramble brings you to a rocky beach with a double pool. One shallow, one deeper. Popular and perhaps the best swim below Asco.

There are other places on the D147 that you might swim, but they all vary year to year. Some summers you may find the river bed strewn with rocks. This reduces the depth of water and makes swimming impossible.

The Old Mill,★★★★☼ Gorges d'Aitone, ☆ See Porto

map. Access from the A84 between the L'Acciola campsite and the Paisolu Holiday Village. Follow the "Mare a Mare Nord" east 15 mins down to the river from the car park at N42.26713° E8.82884°.

A beautiful square pool, fairly shallow at the edges so jumps are risky. Popular.

Bonifatu Forest☆ about 10KM south of Calvi. Past the airport on the D81 and then turn off left for Bonifatu as the Galeria road turns right. Take the path down from the lower end of the car park at Bonifatu. N42.44476° E8.85539°.

The Fango ★★★★★☼

On the NW coast, about 15Km south of Calvi. As the Fango gorges are fairly low it is much easier and quicker to access this river than others with deeper gorges which may involve long walks or steep and difficult paths. The Fango is near Galéria on the coast. This is the ideal river to swim the pools + walk in the shallows and besides this avoids any land access problems. Take the D81 to Fango and then left onto L'Espronaccio/D351 and follow the road up the valley for 1½Km.

CENOTÉ

JAMAICA

Three hot springs. The best and most expensive time to visit is between January & April.

Bath Fountain ☆ St Thomas parish, on the east end of the island. N17.96077° W76.35538°. You can either go to the hotel bath or ask for a guide to the hot spring itself. Sulphurous 132° showers available. Good for spotty skin.

Milk River Bath ☆ in the middle of the south coast. A small bath with clear salty water in an old colonial building. N17.85342° W77.35300°. Max 20 mins allowed in the bath, but you have lovely smooth skin afterwards.

Reach Falls ☆ on the east end of the island. N18.0312° W76.31165°. A jade pool in a gorge. Arrive early.

JAPAN

Japan is the land of the hot spring. They are called "Onsen" and there are about 2,500 of them. Too hot for much swimming, but relaxing in them is a very popular Japanese pastime. Mostly they are commercialised. Here are a few well known ones. Those who sport a tattoo are not allowed entry.

Hakone Mountains ☆ south west of Tokyo. This is a good area for onsen.

The Izu Peninsular ☆ juts out into the pacific about 80 miles south of Tokyo. There are many onsen here.

Kenroku ☆ in Kanazawa city, half way up the coast of the South Island (Honshu), facing the Sea of Japan. 4 to 8 hours by train from Tokyo.

Old fashioned municipal baths, only £1 entrance. 3 pools.

Noboribetsu ☆ in the North Island (Hokkaido) 1½ hours by train south of Sapporo.

Las Vegas style. There are about 20 pools, of varying temperatures, all set in a huge hall.

LUXEMBURG

Camping Kautenbach ☆ ☆ In the north, E of Wiltz. Camping round a bend of a river with deep pools. An der Weierbaach, L9663 Kautenbach. N49.95509° E6.03017°

MEXICO

The Cenoté of the Yucatán ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ In the Yucatan peninsular of southern Mexico you will find the phenomena of the cenoté, says Gavin. These are holes in the ground, rather like giant wells. At the bottom is an underground river. Some of these rivers are shallow or stagnant and you wouldn't want to fall in, but others have a deep clear pool below. In olden days, you might have been thrown in as a human sacrifice by some Mayan high priest, but not any longer. Nowadays you have to make do with throwing yourself in.

This practise (jumping down a cenoté) has now developed into a local sport, and is a part of the tourist industry. Sometimes the drop is just 20ft, at others the cenoté is 60ft deep or more, thus giving you ample time to recall all your lifetime memories as you plummet downwards. If you survive this, you then have a rather hairy climb up the side of the cenoté with ropes etc. Of course you can chicken out, and watch someone else or one of the local experts do it. In 2002 Caleb & Jo (from Shaftesbury) went to Mexico to investigate. They found one that you didn't have to jump down. There were steps leading down to the river, so they walked down them. They then swam ½ mile along the underground river to the sea. There was no lighting apart from the cenoté shafts, but this was enough for them to see by. The current was quite fast so it didn't take them long. The locals thought it was cold, but Caleb says he didn't find it cold. Strangely the water was colder lower down: possibly there was

EXTREMADURA

Roman Oasis: No Derek hasn't fallen into a drain. He's swimming out of the Roman grotto.

Junta de los Rios☆☆☆☆☆ Take the A4050 north from Almuñécar on the Costa del Sol towards Granada. After Jete and 2Km after Otivar turn left between the sturdy square posts and pay at the hut beyond. N36.82312° W3.69954° Either park and walk the 6Km to the mouth of the gorge or risk driving down. Then right by the old farm buildings and follow the river upstream (crossing back and forth) to a staircase of pools (of increasing depth) & waterfalls. Open Tues-Sun 10.00 to 19.00. Tel: 680493629

Northern Extremadura

Sierra de Gata (extreme north west)

Acebo☆ A popular river swim to the west of town, dammed up in summer. N40.20100° W6.72022°

Cadalso☆ Long summer swim with some shade. N40.23737° W6.53335°

Descargamaria☆ On the northern side of town off the CCV7, a long pool. N40.30784° W6.48318°

Eljas☆ A popular river swim, also dammed up. Perhaps: N40.22150° W6.84916°

Gata☆ Shingle pool by a bridge, perhaps down Calle Gabriel y Galán N40.23675° W6.59193°

Hernán Pérez☆ River pool dammed in summer. Approx: N40.21301° W6.46431°

Hoyos☆ Popular length of fairly shallow water. 1Km out of town on the EX205. N40.18209° W6.69490°

Perales del Puerto☆ Long summer swim north of town on the A109. N40.16914° W6.67973°

Pinofrankeado☆ By the spectacular on the EX204. Shingle beach and shallow river. N40.29975° W6.33362°

Robledillo de Gata☆ In the north of town off Calle Rúa and down some stone steps to a small pool. A welcome 17° in summer. N40.32372° W6.47040°

San Martín de Trevejo☆ Pool above a summer dam off Ave. Chafaril and very much in town. N40.21221° W6.79262°
